REV. B. DE NEICE WELCH
Pastor

Bidwell Street United Presbyterian Church

As a minister and educator, Rev. B. De Neice Welch works tirelessly with community leaders and organizations to bring positive change to the community.

The pastor of Bidwell Street United Presbyterian Church is part of an initiative with former Councilwoman Tonya Payne and the URA to rehabilitate homes in Manchester and is the founder of the "Shalom Project" anti-violence initiative. She is also responsible for introducing a plan to the Family Hospice and Palliative Care Center Board to provide services to North Side residents at its Anderson Manor hospice and education center. She is currently in the process of obtaining a national gambling addiction certification from the University of Pittsburgh. She holds a master's of Divinity from Pittsburgh Theological Seminary as well as degrees from Geneva College and Robert Morris University. She serves on the boards for Urban Youth Action, Family Hospice and Palliative Care Center, Pittsburgh Interfaith Impact Network and is an advisory board member for the Metro Urban Institute. She has also taught religion classes at The Neighborhood Academy and at Pittsburgh Theological Seminary. She is the mother of four children, Aja, Jordan, Christopher and Ian, and the wife of Rev. John C. Welch.
